Embracing Change – The Future for Power Distribution Co-ops

“Change before you have to.” ~Jack Welch

We can honestly say REAs know a bit about change. Over the years, power distribution co-ops have had to weather the electrical industry storm, riding out the turbulence of revolving government initiatives, increasing industry standards, and restrictive legislative boundaries. While REAs have made it this far, it is not yet the best climate for REAs. In order to be successful, in order to have a sustainable future, in order to compete in a dynamic and often volatile market, power distribution co-ops require revision to antiquated legislation.

The AFREA continues to advocate for conditions that support a successful and sustainable future for REAs in the rural Alberta economy. Grid modernization will impact all industry players and REAs are intent on providing reliable, affordable, and effective power distribution systems. We have grown up with change, we continue to make changes needed to compete, and we will embrace change to remain a vital part of rural Alberta's future.

The AFREA Board and Staff welcome you to the 2023 AGM & Conference.
